COLLEGE OF MARIN BOARD ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

KENTFIELD, Calif., Dec. 15, 2004—College of Marin trustees elected new officers last night at its regular monthly board meeting. Effective immediately, Dr. Eva Long will serve as president, Greg Brockbank as vice president, and Carole Hayashino as clerk. Each officer will serve a one-year term.

“I am confident the new board officers have the ability and resolve to continue College of Marin’s resurgence,” said Wanden Treanor, outgoing board president. “I trust that Dr. Long’s leadership and her rapport with fellow trustees and our Superintendent/President, Dr. Frances White, will continue to strengthen the trust and confidence Marin has in our community college.”

Dr. Eva Long has been a College of Marin trustee since 1999. She currently serves as president of Excellence Launch Associates, a consulting firm that audits under-performing K-12 schools and helps districts improve. She also sits on the American Red Cross Marin Chapter board of directors, and is coaching project chair of the National Women’s Political Caucus. Dr. Long earned a doctorate degree in education from The Fielding Institute (Santa Barbara, CA).

Greg Brockbank has been a trustee since 1989, including nine years as a board officer. A small business owner and attorney, he owns Marin Law Center, a general civic practice law firm. He currently serves as the senior member of the Democratic Central Committee of Marin and is in his fifth year as president of the Marin Democratic Club. Mr. Brockbank earned his juris doctorate degree from Hastings College of Law.

Carole Hayashino has been a trustee since 2003. She currently serves as vice president for advancement at California State University, Sacramento, and sits on the KQED board of directors. During her career, Ms. Hayashino has received many awards for her public service, including the Marin County Martin Luther King Humanitarian Award. She earned her master’s degree in educational administration at the University of San Francisco.
